I RISE TO REMARK

BY JOHN PHILLIPS

When you read this, at home, Congress will have made its decision about adjourning, and the eyes of the nation will be turning to Philadelphia, where the political leaders will be gathering like flies around a honey pot, and where smoke will already be settling in the smokefilled rooms in which history is made, or at least influenced.

With that in mind, it might be well to read again the fateful words of John Stuart Mill. This is what he had to say about Liberty:

"A people may prefer a free government, but if, from indolence, or carelessness, or cowardice or want of public spirit, they are unequall to the exertions necessary for preserving it; if they will not fight for it when it is directly attacked; if they can be deluded by the artifices used to cheat them out of it; if by momentary discouragement, or temporary panic, or a fit of enthusiasm for an individual, they can be induced to lay their liberties at the feet even of a great man, or trust him with powers which enable him to subvert their institutions; in all these cases they are more or less unfit for liberty: and though it may be for their own good to have had it even for a short time, they are unlikely long to enjoy it."

The issues before the three conventions, and thus before the American citizens, are issues based on principles, and not on men. If the issues are right, men will so administer the governments; if they are wrong, or if we leave the path of principal, for the paths of expediency, or emotion, then no amount of hope and faith will save us. The philosophy of freedom on which America was founded, and on which, as I have said so many times before, it became strong enough to support the nations who strayed from the principals of freedom, was formulated to meet a crisis which almost overwhelmed the world of that time.

Free society is not attacked today outside, but from inside. It was in separation that we gained our strength; not in centralization. Perhaps separation is not the word I want; dispersion would be better. I mean we had individuals strong, farmers and little businesses, and small industries, and we developed free enterprise, and innumerable separate ventures. Our resources were distributed among all these small, firmly established, enterprises and individuals.

It is the desire of centralized government to gather these resources under its control. This is the history of dictatorship; to combine little enterprises into big enterprises, and then to take control of the big enterprise; to make farmers dependent on controls, direct or indirect, from the far-away seat of power; to make men and women depend, for their very lives, on what some governmental authority gives them permission to do or to have.

We need courage and self-reliance and self-denial, a whole lot more than we need party platforms, but human nature being what it is, I suspect we'll get the platforms, and we'll hope that someone will pass a miracle, so that we will not have to have self-denial forced upon us. By the time you read my next letter, you should know, from the news wires, what happened at Philadelphia.

The second section of the independent Offices appropriation bill passed the House, after a hard fight. This bill not only saves the taxpayers $504,000,000 (which amount makes over 2½ billions saved in my subcommittee's bills in one Congress) but it heads three "temporary" agencies towards the last roundup. The most permanent thing in government is a temporary agency!

Stanton Lions Elect Pruett For President

Monday night's meeting of the Stanton Lions club featured the election of officers with J. E. Pruett selected to succeed R. G. West as president. Supporting officers will be W. E. Harper, first vice-president, Allen M. Reece, Jr., second vice-president; Joseph Manning, third vice-president; Paul V. MacGlashan, secretary; Whitney D. Bell, treasurer; Herbert Howard, tail twister; Royal Martin, lion tamer; Ed Faulkner and Carl Hovey, directors. Holdover directors are John Gautschy and G. L. Clark.

Installation of officers will take place on June 21 with Dr. Karl Brigandi and Robert Poor of the Garden Grove Lions club, sponsors of the local club, as installing officers.

It is reported that the Boy Scout troop, which is being sponsored by the club, plans to sell each merchant in the community an American flag, and be responsible for the display and care of the flags on national holidays.

Owner of Vessels Ranch Warns To "Beware"

Frank Vessels, owner and operator of a large-scale ranch just outside of Los Alamitos, has issued a warning to residents and parents that the cattle pastured in the fields of his property which borders on Katella Road is an unsafe variety which is not tame in nature. The cattle are wild and vicious and were shipped here from Texas to graze because there is an abundance of grass which needed to be used to good advantage. The cattle raised on the 500 acre ranch normally are registered polled herefords without horns. There is a large settlement of homes on the outskirts of Los Alamitos opposite the fields where the animals are confined, and this means is taken of properly warning neighbors that it is dangerous for children to disregard the fences which separate the grassland from the road.

The Vessels Ranch is noted also, for its interest in the raising and training of the famous "quarter horse." This horse has been developed down through the generations by large-scale farmers, originally in Texas and Oklahoma, during the last one hundred years, until it has reached its present stage of speed and form. The history of the quarter horse extends back as far as the thoroughbreds. The horse is noted for heavy muscles and quarters, like the English bull dogs. They have gained a wide reputation because they are capable of running the quarter mile distance faster than any other horse in the world. They have a wonderful disposition and will apper to stand all day, sleepy and lazy, but when raced at night become suddenly alive.

Vessels amusingly referred to the animal as being similar to a cowboy's pony, or, the poor man's race horse. When being raced, they are ridden with a jockey up, and there will be racing at the ranch on July fourth.

Frank himself, when being interviewed, displayed the easy, casual manner of a western rancher and was appropriately attired in the dress of the cattleman, although he is a Kentuckian by birth — the home of the thoroughbreds. He is engaged in the construction business out of Long Beach, and his firm, the Ofcco construction company, is currently engaged in work on the Los Angeles harbor steam plant, among its projects. However, it is to his ranch that his conversation and interest would invariably turn. He is president of the Pacific Quarter Horse association.

The family moved from Long Beach a year ago to its present location, and Vessels states that he is soon to turn his attention to a 5300-foot ranch-type home, complete with the most modern advancements in residential building, including a barbecue and four car garage. The frontage will extend 160 feet along Katella road, just west of the present home site. When finished, it will be one of the newest and most modern homes in Orange county.

Mystery Surrounds Circumstances Of Early Morn Crash

Victim of a traffic mishap when the car he was driving apparently hit the ditch, skidded and rolled over, Jesse Armstrong, a sailor aboard the USS Taluga bertned at Wilmington, was found dead beside the wrecked car at Moody street and Orange avenue early Monday morning.

The car he was driving belonged to his uncle, "Johnnie" Sanderson, in whose home he had been visiting. The Sandersons are at a loss to understand why the lad should have been prompted, some time in the night, to carefully arrange his bed to give the appearance that he was still sleeping, and slip out into the night after "borrowing" the car. Armstrong, 22 years of age, was described as a healthy, husky boy who had always been dependable and was quiet in nature. His parents reside in Mississippi. Investigation at the scene of the accident indicated that the car was traveling at a terrific speed, and marks on the pavement showed that the car skidded, slid on the top, and turned over five times before finally coming to a halt. The first intimation that Mr. and Mrs. Sanderson had that anything was amiss was when a call came from the sheriff's office early in the morning to come to Orange to identify the car.

Visitor Petitions Breakfasters For Traffic Control

The business people of Cypress were confronted with a busy schedule of meetings because of the fact that the first Tuesday of the month followed on the heels of the second Monday in June, which caused the business men's breakfast club meeting to follow the previous evening's meeting of the chamber of commerce.

The committee charged with setting up the plans for the control of solicitors and peddlers, headed by William "Bill" Reed and aided by T. J. Boyd, was revised with the appointment of the senior Robinson of Robinson Motor company. This change was made necessary by the return to Michigan of the former member, Dean Olmstead. The people of Cypress and surrounding territory are now in receipt of a card which explains the aim of the local merchants, its committee set up by the club. Housewives are warned to be sure that the business callers who come to the door are approved by the committee set up to guard against the residents being "taken" by itinerants who are "fly-by-nights." A special card will be issued by the business men through the association. This is a safe-guard to all concerned, and housewives especially are urged to cooperate in this matter and insist upon seeing the card of approval in tthe hands of the callers before patronizing them. This method is set up to protect both the residents and legitimate business in Cypress.

As special guest of the club, Ray Edwards, made an eloquent plea to the members to interest themselves in the matter of a four-way stop at the corner of Lincoln and Walker. Although vitally concerned about this problem at all times, his insistence that something should be done—now—was heightened because of the fact that his wife and baby, son, narrowly escaped death from a reckless, speeding driver, while trying to make a safe crossing at the dangerous corner. Edwards was petitioning that something be done before tragedy strikes to interest the proper authorities to act in securing a four-way stop. It was the consensus of the group that the corresponding secretary be instructed to write a letter asking for the traffic control measure The two women members of the breakfast club, present Miss Elizabeth Dickerson and Miss Beth Kroesen were appointed by the president, Frank P. Noe, to work with Edwards to interest the organized groups in Cypress, including the P.T.A., Woman's community club, and the newly formed Veterans of Foreign Wars post to use their influence. A list of the names of the various county and state officials were secured from the secretary of the chamber of commerce, Russell Flynn, in order that they may be further advised that individuals and organizations in Cypress are incerely desirous of obtaining a means of traffic control at the corner of Lincoln and Walker to safegaurd the lives of the pedestrians and motorists.

Pictured above are officers and members of the new Veteran of Foreign Wars Post No. 9847 which was initiated Sunday in the Cypress Elementary School auditorium. Reading from left to right are the following: 1st row: Viggo P. Mallin, chief of staff, second district; Bruce Quarry, QM; Ray E. Lucas, senior vice commander; Charles W. Biggs, commander; Carl R. Markel, Jr., vice commander; R. G. Eldridge, second district commander. 2nd row: Elmer E. Luty, rifleman, color guard; Don Wedeking, two-year trustee; George A. Loney, surgeon; Glenn C. Porter, color bearer; J. E. Smith, member; M. E. Jennings, member. 3rd row: Ray Littlefield, patriotic instructor; Willoughby Patton, member; William R. Dye, O.D.; Robert B. O'Leary, adjutant and three-year trustee.

Motorists Answers To Determine 101 Route In Co.

The study, recently authorized by the California Highway Commission, will be conducted for a period of several months in cooperation with U. S. Public Roads Administration and the California Highway Patrol.

It is proposed to stop several hundred thousand trucks and passenger cars and check where the drivers are going, from whence they came, and why. The answers obtained from motorists will determine the traffic habits and traffic requirements of the areas to be served by highway locations which will be studied. The survey will provide data to evaluate traffic service to be offered by several contemplated highway locations in the south coastal areas and will be of value in determining the selection by the Highway Commission of proper routing.

Chamber of Commerce Advised Stop Sign Request Still Not Granted

The Cypress chamber of commerce held its regular meeting in the school auditorium on Monday evening, June 14, at 7:30 o'clock, with S. V. "Jack" Fullerton presiding. Secretary Russell Flynn read the minutes of the previous meeting, discussion of which had been directed toward the coming "White Gold days" on September 18, and they were approved. It was noted that it has been decided to offer a television set as the grand prize to be given away this year.

Flynn reported on a joint meeting recently in Orange of the Los Angeles and Orange county planning commissions. It would appear that both groups are faced with old-fashioned and out-moded laws on their books, such as the "ranch act" in Orange county, which need to be revised or abolished entirely. In order to get action, they must be presented before the board of supervisors in each instance.

It was pointed out that the chamber of commerce has no desire to discourage or deny business in this area, but that for the protection of the prospective merchant he should consult the county planning commission as to opportunities. Salesmen have reported that many towns are beseiged with small businesses which fail to support themselves after a few months. This harms not only the newest individual, but existing business as well.

The returned articles of incorporation of the Cypress chamber of commerce were discussed and the decision made to return the papers to the attorney who originally drew them up in order to untangle the difficulties which were not in order, according to law.

The matter of traffic control on Lincoln avenue through the center of town was brought to the attention of the members, and a review made of the number of times the chamber has taken steps, signed petitions, and made application for a four-way stop at Lincoln and Walker. Authorities have reported to the officials in

IT'S BEING SAID - - IN CYPRESS

That we're going to devote this little space this week to the contemplation of a serious matter, and a subject dear to the hearts of all those who reside here. There can be no "funny stuff" when our hearts and eyes are closed to the biggest need on our main street—that of a four-way stop at the corner of Lincoln and Walker streets. How can we criticize county officials who fail time after time, request after request, to do something about our situation here when we ourselves sit dumbly and uninterestedly by, not even giving support to organized bodies in town whose duty it is to be concerned about traffic and safety. Did you know that a woman and child narrowly escaped death before the horrified gaze of many of our business people and shoppers one day last week? This is not a pretty thought, is it? Do you know that the "powers that be" say there will have to be at least five people killed on the streets of Cypress before they will consider there is a need for a stop signal? Do YOU want to make this kind of a sacrifice, or give up a friend or member of your family to pave the way and lay the groundwork for a couple of sticks of wood with a round piece of metal painted red with the words "Stop" written across it? Does any of this information make your blood boil and leave you cold all over? Would you like to know if there is any small thing you, as an individual can do, to aid in the program to secure a four-way stop signal for Cypress? Well, okay. Make it a point, when you are down town, to have a pencil and paper handy. Be ready, when you observe, a car or a truck speeding through on our main streets, to JOT DOWN THE LICENSE NUMBER. That is all you need to do. Take down as many as you can. There is plenty of material—and the show goes on, all hours of the day and night. LIST THESE ON A PENNY POST CARD, and simply address it to Headquarters, State Highway Commission, Santa Ana, California. Let's not misunderstand the motive. The numbers in themselves won't mean anything, and no arrests will be made. But let's HARASS those officials and let them KNOW that there are PEOPLE who reside in this little spot who have the welfare of their community at heart. The chamber of commerce and the West Orange county safety council are organizations to whom officials have turned a deaf ear. YOU, and YOU, and YOU—individuals living in Cypress—have a job to do. Are you ready? Well, okay. Traffic accidents killed over 32,500 Americans during 1947! It's no fun to be a statistic. Let's work to avert tragedy, and not let tragedy strike first.

FATHER'S DAY CONTEMPLATION

By C. Frank Lyen

I did not choose you, blessed child,
But rather, you have chosen me;
A migratory soul you are
A-winging through eternity.

And this is Father's Day, my child,
And how I wish that it were so
That I am worthy of the love
Your goodness never fails to show.

But you will not forget this day:
You'll send me gifts and love and word,
And I'll lament, deep in my heart,
The good for you that I deferred.

But my own father comes to mind:
A flood of love goes out to him.
And though I see his face no more
His virtues shine — his faults are dim.

So maybe it is thus with you,
You blessed comrade of my soul:
My scanty good you magnify
And make my high intent the goal.

A bit of poetry written by the late C. Frank Lyen on the occasion of Father's Day, 1947. Contributed by Mrs. Madge Lyen in memory of her husband on the first Father's Day since his death.

Good Wishes Extended To New Cypress VFW

Combined institution and installation ceremonies took place Sunday afternoon June 13, in the Cypress school auditorium for Cypress Post 9847 Veterans of Foreign Wars. Chief of staff V. P. Mallin, organizer of the unit, was in charge of ceremonies, and instructed officer of the day. Frank Moreno of the Anaheim Post to escort various dignitaries to the platform. V.F.W. dignitaries included national extension officer R. C. Sloss of Pasadena; second district commander, Rile Eldridge; of Santa Ana; junior past commander of the state, Charles P. Ash; department chaplain, Herman Kribs; county commander Robert P. Kellog of Laguna Beach adjutant of the county council as well as the commander of the Laguna Beach Post, Leslie G. Chatham, and Opal Walter, president of second district auxiliary.

Post commanders also given escort were C. H. Peterson of La Habra; Howard Rice of Huntington Beach; J. Callahan of Seal Beach; Gene Childers of Buena Park and Glen W. Schroeder of Westminster. James A. Baker, supervisor of the third supervisorial district and Haskell A. Kelley, representing the local chamber of commerce, were seated on the platform.

Fifty charter members of the unit were given the obligation by Charles Ash, who also installed the officers.

Seated as commander of the new post was Charles Biggs, senior vice-commander, R. E. Lucas; junior vice-commander, C. R. Markel; judge advocate, H. J. Kreissler; adjutant, R. B. O'Leary; quartermaster, B. Quarry; chaplain, E. M. Mitchell; surgeon, G. Loney; officer of the day, W. R. Dye; guard, G. Begley; bugler L. Fowler; legislative officer, G. E. Riddle employment officer, Oren Harvey. Color bearers, G. C. Porter and J. Sutphin; color guard, E. E. Luty and W. L. Burch; three year trustee, R. B. O'Leary, two year trustee, D. Wedeking and one year trustee, Carl Sanders, Jr.

The fifty new members who have signed the official roster and were admitted to membership Sunday are as follows:

Following the institution, the 200 persons who witnessed the ceremonies assembled in the school cafeteria where sandwiches, cake and coffee wereserved.

The formal program was brief but significant. Following the presentation of the colors by the color guard, the chaplain offered a fervent prayer petitioning, divine guidance in the affairs of the new chapter. After the visiting dignitaries were seated upon the platform, installing officer Ash conducted the initiation, and explained briefly the meaning of the symbol, the Maltese cross, the significance of which is to honor the dead by helping the living. Each member was received individually and presented with an insignia, after which the new officers were installed. Commander Biggs responded to the greeting extended him by saying that he has been a member of the V.F.W. since 1942, first at South Gate and later at Long Beach, so the work of the organization is not entirely new to him. He spoke of the desire of the group to help in the plans for Cypress' White Gold Days, a celebration which has become traditional to aid in the fund to help establish a recreation park for the community, which will tend to cut down on juvenile delinquency by providing proper outdoor activities. The theme of "White Gold Days" was chosen as tribute to the dairy industry in its production of milk. Biggs also stated that when the local chapter has reached its goal of 100 members, it will consider the formation of an auxiliary here. This means fifty more members for the local post. As other guests were called upon to speak, the general consensus voiced in the words of welcome was that Cypress, although a small community, would have a good post because it is formed from a group of enthusiastic members who have the best interests of the community at heart, and because it has chosen energetic and capable officers as leaders. It was pointed out that the V.F.W. will be asked to sponsor certain patriotic observances in the future, give aid in time of any general disaster, and carry on its obligations with a view to being civic-minded generally.

Kiwanis Hear Of Convention

Fank Noe, vice-president of the Park Kiwanis club reported to the membership on the International Convention held in Los Angeles last week. He reviewed the key-note speeches briefly and told of the business transacted at the morning sessions.

Hank Legari described the Wednesday evening circus held in the Shrine auditorium. Members of the club took boys in the Kiwanis sponsored scout troop to that event and Legari told of the outstanding entertainment which exemplified the interest of Kiwanis in youth work.

FATHER'S DAY

It's a brief, somewhat fleeting moment of glory. The familiar props, neckties, pipe and slippers, signify his day.

It is a time out of the worry and hurry of everyday life, when father is king. A time, also, which helps to bind the family closer together. It is a day when it is well to remember that while the world may straddle a precarious perch, families can be a bulwark for world peace and security. It's Father's Day—and it comes on Sunday, June 20th. Let's not forget it!

THE FIRE ENGINE

We all like to watch the fire engine go by.

It's an exciting sight, with the siren screaming and the firemen hanging on for dear life and the dogs and the children tearing down the street after it.

But the sight at the end of its run may not be so stimulating.

It may be a grass fire, easily put out with extinguishers. It may be some deserted shack which should have been torn down long ago. It may be minor damage to a building.

But, on the other hand, it may be a fire that puts the biggest employing concern in town out of business for months—or a fire that destroys a house that represents the savings and labor of years—or a fire that burns somebody to death.

Whatever kind of fire it is, great or small, costly or unimportant, it makes its contribution to our disgraceful record of fire waste. Maybe the damage to a building only runs into a few hundred dollars—a sum so small as to be hardly worth talking about. That was the little fire you saw. But, day after day, month after month, year after year, thousands of such fires occur. And that—when we add in the occasional conflagration that does damage running past the million mark—is why American carelessness with fire costs us well over half a billion a year.

The signal bell sounds in the station house and the red engine answers another call. Maybe it's fun to see it shriek by—but it's the kind of fun we pay for in lives and dollars and total destruction.

Looking Ahead

Cure For Shortage

By GEORGE S. BENSON

President of Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

OIL IS SAID to calm troubled waters. Oil is indeed the key to a good many problems, international and national. Right now there is not enough oil for all who want to consume oil in this country, and some domestic waters are not calmed. Some of you have come smack up against this shortage of petroleum products. I hope you are not among those who have had the poor judgment to call for government rationing and control.

I have said in an earlier column that it was government bungling, along with the wastage of war, that laid the ground work for our current trouble in the petroleum industry. The result — our shortage of fuel and gasoline — is here. Now, there are those folks who get frightened, not having the long view of things, every time a slight economic dislocation rears its head. These folks usually holler for the government to do something.

Who's To Blame? OR THEY blame industry. In this instance the oil industry is no more to blame than you are. In fact, you are probably more to blame, especially if you are one of nearly a million householders who have installed oil heating since 1941. Or if you have anything to do with the almost 2½ million increase in motor vehicle registration since 1941. There are 35 per cent more trucks on the road than before the war. They haul food to you that is grown on farms almost 100 per cent more mechanized than in 1941.

All these things take oil. Railroads used 42 per cent more diesel fuel in 1947 than in the year before. Our greatly stepped-up industrial growth has been powered by oil and lubricated by petroleum products. Oil and gas have emerged as the main source of industrial energy. In 1920, coal accounted for 78 per cent of the total energy produced in this country, oil and gas 19 per cent. In 1946 it was: coal, 47 per cent; oil and gas, 47 per cent. (The miners' Mr. Lewis please note.)

What You Can Do THE OIL industry is therefore producing at top speed. Present output of the industry is more than the whole world required ten years ago. The demand is estimated by some oil men to be growing at the rate of 8 per cent a year! This is the kind of situation that government interference and price control can never cure!

Demand is a fine thing, for the whole industry. But there are problems. Oil men tell me it costs three times as much to put up a modern refinery as it did in 1936. They say total exploration costs are about four times those of ten years ago, and wildcat wells cost (per barrel discovered) five or six times what they used to. Then, of course, there's the problem of whether they can get the steel or materials at all.

If you are an oil consumer, you can help get the country through this crisis. You can do it by practicing honest-to-goodness Scotch economy this winter. This voluntary way will prevent government intervention and rationing, which would only make matters worse. Rationing would bring hoarding and ruin present fair distribution channels. The industry through enterprise will continue to put out the goods. Solving problems this way, America will continue to be a great and strong nation.

County Tax Rate Trend Leveling Off

Orange county's property tax of $1.00 for general county purposes for 1947-48 was 27.5 cents lower than the $1.275 rate for 1946-47, but 17 cents greater than the war-time low rate of 83 cents levied for fiscal 1943, 1944, 1945, and 1946, California Taxpayers' association said today, analyzing tax rate trend in California counties.

Tax rates for general county purposes for 1947-48 are higher than for 1946-47 in thirty California counties, show no change in five, and are lower in twenty-three counties, the association found.

County tax rates in every county for 1947-48 exceed war-time and postwar lows, the association reported.

"The county tax is only one of several which are levied against property in any community," the Taxpayers' association said, pointing out that in addition to the local tax bill, state and federal taxes for 1947-48 brought taxes to an average of $506 per capita for every man, woman and child in California.

Warning that the budget now being considered by county boards of supervisors, city officials, school boards, and other local governing boards will directly affect the tax rate and the size of next year's tax bill, The Taxpayers' association said:

"Direct action by the people now to hold government expenditures to essential will keep taxes for 1948-49 within reason. There will be little use in crying over spilled milk when tax bills come out next November. Time for action is now. Tell your local governing boards what you want."

Mrs. George T. Alleman will be confined to her bed for three weeks on orders from her physician.

Comedy Opens Summer Theater At Tustin

Harold Turney executive director of Holiday Stage, announced that "She Loves Me Not," will open the summer season at Tustin, June 28. Set in the men's dormitory at Princeton University, "She Loves Me Not" is a romantic collegiate farce in nineteen scenes by Howard Lindsay, co-author of "Life With Father" and is a comedy with dances and songs. It will co-star Vera Marshe, who interpreted the same role of Curley Flagg for fourteen months in the London production, and Oliver Cliff, popular young Holiday Stage star who recently concluded a 32-week engagement with Katharine Cornell in "Antony and Cleopatra." The supporting cast of forty will include Mary Finney, Beverly Campbell, Glen Wells, Don Quinn, James Connell, and William Pullen.

Continuing to sell season-subscription tickets by mail orders, single admissions for the opening play will go on sale at the Tustin Theatre next Monday, June 21. With two telephones recently installed and the assignment of Charlotte McGee and Sue Carmichael as ticket assistants, Florence Turney, treasurer, expects to be able to satisfactorily serve Orange County patrons.

Obey New Law Or Lose Your Driver's License

California's new Financial Responsibility Law which becomes operative July 1 calls for automatic suspension of drivers' licenses for violation of its provisions, A. H. Henderson, Director of Motor Vehicles, said today.

Henderson will administer the law by which it is hoped to keep proven financially irresponsible drivers off the highways.

"The law is quite clear in regard to such suspensions," said Henderson.

"It specifically says that the Department shall suspend the driver's license of any resident or the California driving privilege of any non-resident who fails to report acidents in California as required.

"Accidents involving injury, death or damage in excess of $100 to the property of any person must be reported within 10 days to the Department of Motor Vehicles in Sacramento, regardless of who is to blame.

"Automatic suspension also is provided in the case of any operator who fails to post security within 60 days of filing an accident report. It is intended to meet any judgement for damages arising from the mishap."

Henderson said the amount of security will be determined from evaluation of accident reports. The Department will employ no field force and vehicles must not be brought to Department of Motor Vehicles offices for determination of damage.

If owners disagree on the amount of damage involved, Department evaluators will come to a final determination through study of the accident report forms.

Driving with a suspended or revoked license carries maximum penalties of a year's imprisonment or $1,000 fine or both.

Henderson warned that drivers' licenses and non-resident's driving privileges would remain suspended until the required deposit is made or until a year elapses from the accident date without a damage suit being filed.

They can be reinstated after evidence satisfactory to the Department is provided of a release from liability, final adjudication of nonliability, confession of judgment or a duly acknowledged written agreement providing for payment of all claims in installments.

Exempt from the law are operators and drivers of vehicles subject to Interstate Commerce Commission or State Public Utilities Commission regulation or those owned by the United States, State of California, State political subdivisions, or municipalities.

My advice to California drivers," Henderson said, "is to acquaint themselves with the provisions of the Financiall Responsibility Act and protect their driver's privilege at all costs.

"They can familiarize themselves with the law through a State folder now available at most service stations, police departments, branches of the Department of Motor Vehicles, offices of the California Highway Patrol and insurance agents and brokers.

Miss Margaret Smith will receive her B. A. degree at commencement exercises to be held at UCLA on Sunday. She expects to return to college next fall for another semester.

C of C Advised Request For Stop Still Not Granted

Cypress that the plan for a four-way stop has not been abolished, but that this matter now becomes federal in scope since the thoroughfare was made a state highway. Since the request has been hanging fire for two years, and the residents lives are in constant danger, it would seem that the chamber of commerce would be justified in its impatience toward a solution of so vital a problem, and welcomes the interest of inidviduals and organizations locally. The members present felt that any step that could be taken by other groups might hasten the attainment of the goal set so long ago.

The members were unanimous in their approval of the acceptance of the president and secretary by their signatures on the certificate received from the Los Angeles chamber of commerce for Jim Bryant's Cypress airpark which places this field on United States Skyway number one, known as "Wright way", which is the first authorized route for private flyers.

There being no new business, the meeting was adjourned.

Leila Mae Maston was among the passengers injured when the Pacific Electric street car struck a hay truck at the Orangethorpe crossing near Artesia on Tuesday.

A building permit has been issud to John Signer for a dairy on Juanita street near Orange avenue and to Edward T. Behrens for four retail stores to adjoin his service station on Lincoln avenue west of Miller road.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Junker and children are enjoying a motor trip with Oregon as a possible destination.

Dan Mackay has returned from a brief trip to Salt Lake City where he accompanied the body of Mrs. Mackay's cousin, Mrs. Margaret Kieth, for burial. He has many relatives in Salt Lake City.

PACK-UP-AND-GO

Just as soon as balmy, bright days arrive, we get the urge to pack up the picnic basket, go to the nearest shady spot, and relax for a few wonderful hours. Have some corner of your cupboard for a picnic basket ready with the necessary staple supplies—coffee pot, paper plates, paper sauce dishes, paper napkins, and cups. Keep filled large salt and pepper shakers and a sugar container.

Every picnic should be a holiday for the whole family — let everyone have a share in the preparation We'll keep it simple, and do most of the work at home so we can devote all our out-door time to play-time activities.

Mix up these spreads, carry your bread and head lettuce, and let each to his own.

SANDWICHES

Picnic dinners often have too much starch and protein, and not enough green vegetables. Any sandwich of meat, cheese, or fish is improved by adding a little cucumber, tomato, pickle or lettuce.

1. Ground left-over meat with hard-cooked egg, chopped pickle and mayonnaise.
2. Ground dried fruit and nuts moistened with mayonnaise or fruit juice.
3. Ground cheese with olive, pickles, chopped vegetables or meat.
4. Grated carrots with peanut butter and lemon juice to soften.
5. Cream cottage cheese with chopped dates or ground nuts.
6. Creamed cheese with chopped olive, or chopped parsley.
7. Hard-cooked egg, chopped celery, pickle and mayonnaise.

If you make different kinds of sandwiches for a picnic basket, label each sandwich, individually wrapped. Then, the family won't have to unwrap the sandwiches to identify them. Leave the crusts on and cut diagonally in halves for easy eating. You can make the sandwiches in advance, wrap in waxed paper, then in a damp towel and store in the regrigerator. A covered vegetable crisper is excellent for storing sandwiches until serving time.

PLUG POINT POINTERS
Lots of pointers have been given on spark plug points, state officials of National Automobile Club's Service Department. One that seems to have been missed is that eventually, if not immediately after the 10,000 miles accepted as standard, the points will burn and make the gap wider than that prescribed for best performance. The car keeps on running, it's true, but not as well as if the points were right.

Graduates From Centralia School Entertained

Following commencement exercises at the Centralia school Wednesday evening, a party was held for the graduates at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Korn on Ball road. Mrs. Korn was assisted in party preparations by Mrs. Harvey Koss.

Using the idea that the graduates were embarking on the "sea of life," a nautical theme was carried out in the decorations and party appointments. The class colors of orchid and gold was observed by using yellow table cloths and lavender sweet peas as centerpieces. Games played also were in the nautical idea with high score prizes going to Beverly Samis, Vernon Cardwell, Joan Felt and Perry Stevens. Albert Lopez received a consolation prize.

Banana splits and punch were served at refreshment time with Mr. and Mrs. Glen Dysinger assisting in the serving.

All but four of the graduates attended the party. Included were Vernon Cardwell, Margaret Col-Baugh, Ritajean De Gennaro, Jo Ann Felt, Eugene Geselle, Lowell Heitman, Carlene Korn, Jeanette Koss, Albert Lopez, Peggy Reece, Shirley Robey, Beverly Samis, Perry Stevens, Billie Marie Tidewell and Evelyn Ybarra.

Examination Of Veterans' Wills In Order Now

During the war millions of servicemen and women made wills in contemplation of hazardous overseas mission. By doing so, they doubtless prevented needless litigation in case of death and made possible the disposition of their property as desired with the minimum of difficulty.

Three years afterwards, however, some of these wills have become booby-traps and should be reviewed without delay. Veterans since the war have married, become parents, accumulated property and changed their circumstances in many other ways. The wills may no longer express their desires. Nevertheless, they lie gathering dust against the day they are taken into court possibly to bring hardship and injustice to the veterans' loved ones.

A case in point: With little property and no family responsibilities, a young soldier at a canteen dance met and fell in love with a young woman on the eve of his departure for Europe. As a gesture of affection, he made a will bequeathing her all his property.

In time they drifted apart; she married another but he remained single. In time also, he forgot about the will or neglected to change it.

When he returned home, his aging parents deeded him their large and prosperous farm believeing he would support them for life. But soon afterwards, infantile paralysis struck him down. When the will was presented to the court, the judge had no choice but to hand over the farm to the young woman, leaving the parents destitute.

The State Bar of California calls attention to the dangers of such unexamined wills. It suggests that with competent advice veterans review their wills and, where a revision is indicated, make them conform to the changed circumstances in their lives.
